About the competition

From the early days of cinema, we've been giving films age ratings on our famous Black Cards. Now, we're giving you a chance to design a Black Card yourself - and see your idea on the big screen in front of the next big blockbuster.
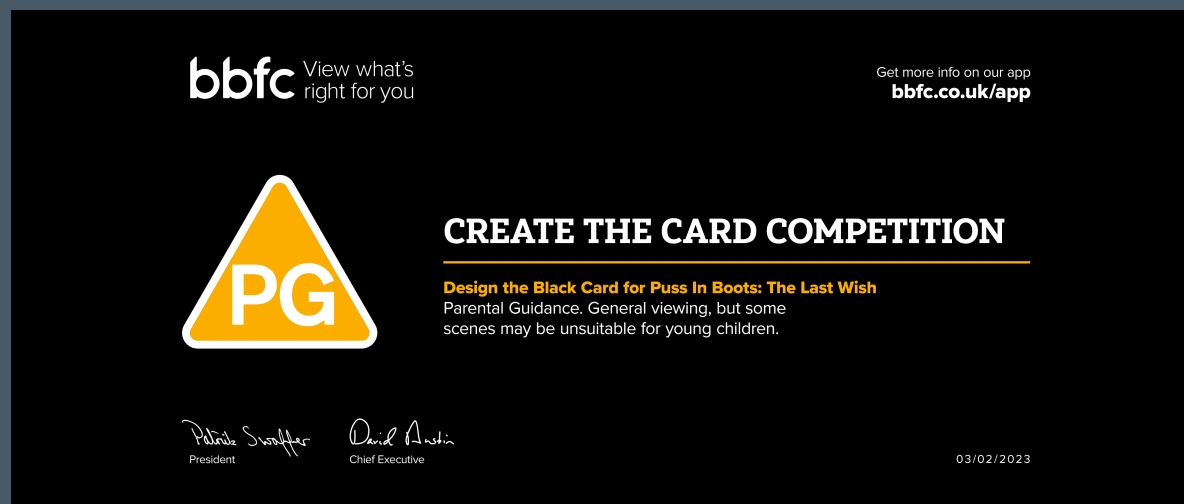

This year, your creation could be seen on a special Black Card displayed in cinemas before every showing of Puss In Boots: The Last Wish - people all over the country will see it. It's a unique opportunity to have your picture and your name up in lights.

Here's an example Black Card to show you where all the information will be!

Instructions

Send us your submission on a landscape A4 piece of paper - you can use any technique you like, but the more creative, the better. It must be all your own work, and we can't accept any entries that use images taken from films or online.

As your design will become the real Black Card, please remember to leave a space for the BBFC logo and the title of the film. We will add in the other important information (the signatures of our CEO and President who approve each decision, the film's unique code, and our BBFC ratings info).

When your creation is complete, post your original entry to the BBFC London offices:
